WOMEN OF THE DAY.

Max O'Rell Gives a Frenchman's Impressions of the Daughters of America.

DEEDS NEEDING NERVE.

Ex-Empress Eugenie Among the Scenes of Her Former Splendor Young Mrs. Blaine's Career.

Max O'Rell in the January Forum: That which struck me most in America, from first to last, is the total absence of stupidlooking faces. All are not handsome, but all are intelligent and beaming with activity. In my opinion, it is in this that American beauty mainly consists. In the large cities of the east, the first thing which caught my attention was the thinness of the men and the plumpness of the women. This seemed to hint that the former lived in a furnace of activity and the latter in cotton wool. This impression soon deepened into a conviction. It seemed to me that her lot was as near to being perfection as an earthly lot could be. A respect amounting to reverence is shown for her, and it appears to be the chief aim of her protectors to surround her with luxury and make her path luxury and make her path through life a sunny one. So far as adding to her mental and physical grace goes, this plan of making every woman an uncrowned queen has answered completely. Seeing her high position, she has sat herself to work to fili#becomingly, and it is the cultivation of America's daughters, it is their charming independence and a consciousness of their power, that make them so attractive and renders American society so delightful to the stranger. In their treatment of women, the Americans might give more than one lesson to the their treatment of women, the Americans might give more than one lesson to the men of the Oid World, even to the Frenchman who, in the matter of politeness, lives a good deal, I am afraid, on the reputation of his ancestors. The respect for women, in America, seemed to me to be perfectly disinterested, purely piatonic. In France, this respect almost always borders on gailantry. A Frenchman will always stand back to let a woman pass, but he will generally profit by the occasion to take a good look at her.

If an outsider be competent to form an opinion, I venture to say that the American woman does not render to man a tithe of the devotion she receives from him. The French wife repays the husband's devotion by protecting his interest—an American one too often repays it by breaking into his capital.

WOMEN OF NERVE.

New York letter: From Lewiston, Me., is telegraphed an account of Miss Belle Meader, of Norridgewock county, Me., coming to Lewiston and climbing the stand coming to Lewiston and climbing the stand pipe of the water works, which rises to the height of seventy-five (set. The ascent is by means of an iron ladder fixed perpendicularly on the side of the pipe. There is a fady in Arkwright, Mrs. D. A. Cadot, who is proud of the fact that she has beaten this record. Mrs. Cadot's adventure, as told by herself, is unique. In 1878 she was Miss Dailey, and resided in Custer City, one of the booming oil towns in the Bradford field. She and another young lady, named Kate J. Miller, when out walking in the suburbs one afterneon, concluded as a lark, that they would climb to the top of one of the oil derricks. They accordingly proceeded to do this, and in a short time reached the top. The height of all derricks built in that country. On the top of this derrick hundreds of persons gathered in the vicinity to witness the unisual spectacle. When the crowd below comprehended that vicinity to witness the unusual spectacle. When the crowd below comprehended that the ladies had climbed the derrick simply the ladies had climbed the derrick simply as a bit of fun, their nerve and coolness were loudly cheered. The young ladies did not expect any such sensation as this and they remained on the top of the derrick for a hour, preferring to give the crowd a chance to disperse before venturing to come down. Nine years after this there was some mention in the oil country newspapers of ladies climbing to the top of derricks, and the Oil City Derrick offered as an inducement a copy of that paper for a year to any lady who would accomplish the feat. Mrs. Cardot said she had no particular desire to accomplish the feat again, but she sent to that plish the feat again, but she sent to that office proof that she had climbed to the top of an eighty-four foot derrick, and as a result she is now receiving gratis a copy of the Daily Derrick. Mrs. Cardot says she experienced no dizziness in making the as-cent nor after reaching the top of the der-rick. Her companion on this occasion was Kate J. Miller, now residing in Derrick City McKean county. Pa City, McKean county, Pa.

"THE DUCHESS."

"THE DUCHESS."

Philadelphia Times: If any nom de plume has become familiar to our American women who read novels it is that of "The Duchess." Yet how few who constantly read her many books know even the author's real name. To these it may be of interest to know that the lady is a Mrs. Hungerford, who lives in one of the most beautiful homes in all ireland. She has earned a handsome competency with her pen, and anything she chooses to write is sure to bring her a comfortable sum in her pen, and anything she chooses to write is sure to bring her a comfortable sum in return. Her Erin home is one of singular taste and richness, for the teller of so many stories is also a careful housekeeper and manager. She has an interesting famils, who help to make her home a cheerful and a desirable place. As to the reading public she is simply "The Duchess," so to her neighbors she is simply Mrs. Hungerford, and it is said that many of them do not know to day that the pleasant visitor at their homes is that the pleasant visitor at their homes is the author of the stories which are on the tables and shelves of their bookcases. She is strangely sensitive on this point and never associates her nom de plume with her identity where it can be avoided. Personally the author is a most charming woman, and her company is sought on all occasions by a large circle of friends. She is fond of young people and courts their society whenever possible.

EX-EMPRESS EUGENIE IN PARIS.

Paris cablegram: So strange and starting are the mutations of fortune that ere now perhaps we should be perfectly hardened to the reverses of those in high estate. now perhaps we should be perfectly hard-ened to the reverses of those in high estate. Paris has harbored during the past week the Countesse de Piearefonds, who is no other than the Empress Eugenie. She has walked alone and unobserved in the garden of the Tuilieries, where formerly she reigned supreme, and she quietly attend mass in the cathedral of Notre Dame, where, as Mile de Modifjo, she was married to the emperor of the French. Sad, with sunken cheeks, lustreless eyes and vacillating step, such are the changes which have come over the once beautiful woman who, at the last court ball, before the unhappy "march to Berlin" was inaugurated, cried in exultant tones to the Princess de Metternich: "Remember, this is my war—not the emperor's." She now pas es unnoticed where she was once the observed of all. While here she is residing with her niece, the Duchesse de Mouchy, nee Princesse Murat.

Young Mrs. Blaine's stage Career
New York letter: A photograph in Sarony's window shows the face of a young girl, pretty beyond question, with hair tastefully arranged and a becoming drescut V shape in front, disclosing a well rounded throat, the modesty of whose appeal is in keeping with the features, whose expression is demur in the extreme. Under the photograph are the words: "Mrs James G Blaine, jr." The exhibition of this pleture is the first professional act of Mrs. Blaine's career as an actress. Her father, Col. Nevins, is the only one opposed to her appearing in public. Her mother looks forward anxiously and hopefully to her daughter's success. Mrs. Blaine is tail, not to ungain iness, however. She has square should rs that would put many a dude to the blush; blonde hair, not of the bleached hue, but more on the golden shade; blue eyes that express volumes when engaged in conversation and a resolute mouth which betokens the determination she posesses. She spent Christmas with her father and mother in the city. YOUNG MRS. BLAINE'S STAGE CAREER

LADY GUIDES FOR LONDON. Cable letter: Mrs. Allen, whose scheme for acting as a guide to ladies in New York has been published, has rivals or imitators over here. Miss Edith Davis has organized a Lady's Guide association. Ladies must pass an examination, and, if accepted, will be supplied with an engraved bracelet to use as a badge. They will be examined as to the geography of London, cab, omnibus and railway fares, history of public buildings, necessary tips, etc. The lady guides will also be expected to assist those employing them in taking care of children, needlework and packing. Any one objecting to these duties cannot care of children, needlework and packing. Any one objecting to these duties cannot join the association. A scheme has been proposed for getting idie young men to form an association for the same purpose, on the ground that ladies prefer to be personally conducted by the opposite sex, but they could not mind babies or sew, and, besides, Miss Davis claims originality, and has published her intention of prosecuting has published her intention of prosecuting any one who attempts to organize a rival affar.

SMALL TALK.

Mr. Dumpsey—There, there, my dear; allow me to propound a conundrum. Why are you like a paim-leaf fan?

Mrs. Dumpsey (suikily)—I don't know.
Mr. Dumpsey—Because it is impossible to shut you up.

Housekeeper-Professor, have you any suggestions with regard to my bric-a-brace that you think would assist the artistic effect of my house? Professor—I would suggest the advisa-bility of an auction sale.

It would never do for women to take up burgiary as a profession. Some inventive man would devise a cunning little mechanical mouse for a burgiar alarm and bring the whole industry to awful ruin.

"Why do you call the phonograph 'she?" asked the horse editor of the snake editor, who used the feminine pronoun in speaking of that invention. "For two reasons: First, it talks back; second, it always has the last word." There is in Sydney, Australia, a spinister of 115 years who has smoked for fifty years. Isn't it about time some one put her out?

Hostess—Miss Brown has no partner for this waitz, you will not mind dancing with her instead of with me? He—On the con-trary, I shall be delighted.

for the idealistic portrait than for the real istic portrait. It is such a strain upon th nerves to idealize, and er—the—er—the—I—ah, it is so difficult to catch the innermost expression of the soul, as it were, that I—er—Mrs. Newrich—Oh, that's all right, young man. I guess l'll let you idolize me $15 worth.

"This is about the slimmest dinner I ever set down to," he said, as he surveyed the table; "but I s'pose I ought to make certain allowances." "Yes, John," replied his wife; "if you would make certain allowances you would have no occasion to find fault with your food."

Sad Case of Mental Incapacity-Anxlous Mother—Why, my daughter, in tears! What has happened? Married Daughter I—I got mad at Arthur this morning and said a lot of mean things, and then he said a lot of meaner ones and—boo-hoo—I a lot of meaner ones and-boo-hoo-1 couldn't think of anything mean enough to say back-boo-hoo!

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy plump weighing 140. strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful discovery free at R. S. Hale & Co.'s drug store.

indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maiadies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached. toms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cared, complications multiply and Consumption of the Langs, Skin Discases, Heart Discase, Rheumatism, Kidney Discase, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induces a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Dis-Dr. Plerce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-naints and impurities, from whatever cause avising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other exerctory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and bealing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

which is scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cura," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterntive, or blood-chemising, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a reusedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.
